TEACHERS HOLD ANNUAL MEET AT HIGH SCHOOL

Morning Session Taken up With Teaching Demonstrations

LARGELY ATTENDED

General Conference This Afternoon—Public Session at M. E. Church South Tonight.

More than 200 teachers attending the State Conference of District H, who had registered before 11:30 this morning, spent the greater part of the morning visiting the teaching demonstrations which were given in the graded schools of the city, and holding the departmental conferences. The High School conference was presided over by S. P. Vanderslice, of George Mason High School.

Dr. Louis Rapeer, of Research University, Washington, D. C., addressed the High School conference on the subject of "Intelligence Tests," and as an illustration of the efficiency of the method, applied it to the teachers in attendance. R. E. Knight, Jr., of the local High School, enjoys the distinction of having made the highest percentage. On a basis of 50 as perfect, he made the average of 44. Number 15 made the low score of 11. Miss Mary J. Cox, of Manassas, addressed the conference on the teaching of first-year algebra. B. Gorovitz spoke upon the subject of "Science in the High School." Officers of the High School conference elected were: Irvin Lindsey, of Alexandria, chairman, and S. P. Vanderslice, of George Mason High School, secretary.

The Grammar Grade conference, which was held in the Washington School Building, was presided over by Miss Mary D. Pierce, of Alexandria. In the boys' school regular lessons were taught and the teachers spent the time in visiting the various rooms and observing the methods used. Miss Mamie F. Rohr, of the University of Delaware, gave a demonstration lesson in fifth grade geography in the presence of a large number of teachers. Later she discussed her methods at the conference. A discussion of text books in civics was then made by Mrs. Laura Chloe of Washington School. The discusisons were followed by a business meeting, at which a chairman was elected for the next meeting.

Demonstration lessons were taught in fourth grade geography at Lee School by Miss Louise Adams and Miss Mildred Lloyd before a large number of the delegates. The Primary conference was presided over by Miss Lucy C. Duncanson, and talks were made on the various departments of the primary school. Miss Grace B. Moran had as her subject "Silent Reading Devices." Illustrated seat work was demonstrated by Miss A. Allison, of Richmond.

The conferences adjourned at 12:30 o'clock and luncheon was served in the halls of the High School by the members of the Parent-Teachers' Association.

At 1:30 this afternoon the entire body met in the general conference in the auditorium of the High School. After the adjournment of the general conference, the visitors will be shown around the city in automobiles furnished by the citizens of the city. The Chamber of Commerce has prepared a large number of maps which it is distributing among the teachers attending.

Another general conference will be held in the M. E. Church South tonight at 8 o'clock. At this meeting Mayor James M. Duncan will deliver the address of welcome to the delegates and the response on behalf of the teachers will be made by Fletcher Kemp, superintendent of the Schools of Arlington County. Harris Hart, Stat superintendent of public instruction, will also deliver an address on the subject "The Next Step in Virginia Education" and Dr. S. C. Mitchell, of the University of Richmond, will speak.

The general public has, extended to it, a cordial invitation to attend the sesisons tonight in the Methodist Church.

Many delegates have been arriving all this morning, and it is thought that before night more than 400 will have arrived.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, March 30.—Politics by radio. That's the latest. Tonight Senator Harry S. New, of Indiana, and former Senator Albert J. Beveridge, opponents for the Republican senatorial nomination in Indiana, will conduct a joint debate, Beveridge being in Indianapolis and New in Washington. Beveridge will address a meeting of women in Tomlinson Hall, Indianapolis, and New Will address the same meeting via radio from the navy plant at Arlington.

The meeting had originally been arranged by friends of Beveridge, but they finally decided to invite New. The senator could not attend, because he was needed in Washington to vote on the treaties, so the arrangements for the rdio debate were concluded. New's speech will be started at Arlington at 10 o'clock. Not only Indiana, but the whole nation may thus listen to an old-fashioned Indiana political debate.

The inside story of the fight that is being made against David H. Blair, commissioner of internal revenue in the Treasury Department, reads almost like fiction. On the one side are Blair and his two superior officers, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Under-Secretary Gilbert. On the other is a strange assortment, lined up together for purposes of expediency, composed of Elmer Dover, assistant secretary of the Treasury, members of the Republican National Committee, R. A. Haynes, Federal prohibition commissioner, and prominent members of the Senate and House, besides members of the Anti-Saloon League. There are several angles to the fight. One is the attempt being made by various forces working through Elmer Dover to "Hardingize" the Treasury Department and put Republicans in all responsible positions in the places of men who were loyal to the Wilson administration. Another angle is the attempt of the Anti-Saloon League and Haynes to get the scalp of Blair because of his refusal to be dictated to by the League, and because he constantly, with the consent of Secretary Mellon, overrules decisions of Commissioner Haynes, originated by the League. Then there is the attempt of lawyers and claim agents, representing many millions of dollars of tax cases before the Internal Revenue Bureau, to oust officials who have made decisions adverse to their clients.

Alanson B. Houghton, former representative in Congress from New York State, and recently appointed United States ambassador to Germany, will sail for his post in Berlin on Saturday. He will be accompanied by Henry P. Fletcher, former under-secretary of state, who goes as the American ambassador to Belgium.

Ambassador Houghton realizes that he has quite a task before him as America's representative in Berlin, in view of the present unsettled state of affairs in Germany growing out of the results of the world war. He will, no doubt, play an important part in bringing about a settlement of the claims of American citizens for loss of life and property due to German submarine warfare, of which there are approximately $500,000,000 already on file at the State Department.

Ratification of the naval treaty resulting from the Arms Conference will not end the impending fight in Congress over a reduction in the naval forces of the United States. Members of the House seem determined to cut the American navy down to a place where the United States would have a 2 navy, as against a 5 navy for Great Britain and a 3 navy for Japan. Majority Leader Lodge warned the Senate to take heed of the situation caused by the contemplated action of the House and insisted that the way to accomplish ultimate disarmament was by concerted action of the nations and not by the individual acts of one nation in cutting its navy. It is regarded as probable that a majority of the Senate will concur with Lodge in his fight to retain the standing given the American navy by the Arms Conference, and there is no doubt but that he will be strongly backed up by the Preident and Navy Department.

GOV. TRINKLE OFFERS REWARD FOR ASSAILANT

Attack on Woman Clerk at McLean is Taken Up

NEW SUSPECT HELD

Wilson Farr, County Prosecutor Scouts Any Possibility of Lynching if Guilty Negro is Found.

McLean, Va., March 30.—Governor Trinkle, of Virginia, has offered to double any reward offered by county authorities for the capture of the assailant of Miss Agnes Hawkins. Commonwealth Attorney Farr, who talked with the governor by long distance yesterday, made that announcement last night. County officials are expected to fix the reward tomorrow.

Richard, alias "Reds" Jackson, negro suspect who was arrested on Aqueduct Bridge this morning, is being held by Washington police for Virginia authorities. Extradition papers to remove the man to Fairfax County will be filed at once. Jackson has not been charged with the crime. He will be extradited on a charge of breaking into the home of R. A. Sanders, of Fairfax County.

Virginia authorities have been trying to locate Jackson since the day of the crime. Negroes who live in the vicinity of the Hawkins farm claim to have seen Jackson in that vicinity the afternoon of the attack. He was employed on a neighboring farm until two days before the asasult. When paid off Jackson said he was going to Baltimore.

A shovel, said to have been identified as belonging to Jackson's former employer, has been found in a feed bin of the barn in which the attack was made. Jackson is said to have been seen with a shovel on the day of the assault.

Commonwealth Attorney Wilson Farr stated tonight that three different parties have reported seeing an unidentified negro near the Hawkins farm last Thursday.

Magistrate Laughlin, of Fairfax County, questioned Jackson today, but was not able to clear up his movements Thursday night. Jackson claims to have gone to Rosslyn to look for a job that afternoon. He returned to Washington that night, he says, and slept in a wagon in "Foggy Bottom." He could not tell where the wagon was.

When taken into custody, Jackson told Policeman R. L. Hannan, who made the arrest, that he was going to Chain Bridge to get a job.

County officials tonight discredited statements that any attempt would be made to lynch the prisoner in event of a confession.

"The people of Fairfax County have too much confidence in the authorities to attempt this kind of action," Commonwealth Attorney Farr declared tonight.

"Persistent talk of lynching is a blot on the county and a hindrance to authorities in talking with colored residents. Up to the present we have had splendid co-operation from the colored population in our search for the guilty man. Talk of lynching is discouraging to authorities as well as a direct affront to the colored people who have helped us in the search. If the man is caught, justice will be administered without the aid of lynch law."

TRAIN ATTACKED BY STRIKERS AT HAGERSTOWN

Car Containing Men Recruited For Shops Is Target

ROCKS ARE HURLED

Big Four Officials Threaten to Take Active Part In The Railroad Walkout.

Hagerstown, Md., March 30.—Battered by rocks, and with a number of strike breakers locked in the baggage car, train No. 5, of the Western Maryland Railroad, was virtually held a prisoner until a late hour last night by strikers of the railroad. The sheriff of Washington county, Judge Frank G. Wagaman, of the Washington County Circuit the superintendent of the Hagerstown division of the railroad and the representative of the Federated Shop Craft directing the strike, went into conference to see what could be done to relieve the situation. An excited unruly crowd surrounds the train.

Upon arrival of the train, 35 minutes late, from Baltimore it was immediately surrounded by strikers when it stopped at one of the Hagerstown street crossings. The crowd began hammering on the door of the baggage car when it was found the strikebreakers were locked in there. Rocks were thrown and a window of the car broken. The crowd swelled to large proportions and the affair rapidly assumed aspects of a riot.

In the confusion one of the strikers slipped behind the locomotive and uncoupled it. When the engine started again to pull into the station the air hose broke and the crowd pushed in so tightly that it prevented efforts to recouple the train.

Hagerstown police, it is said, made little effort to disperse the crowd. Superintendent A. M. Smith of the Hagerstown division, kept all railroad detectives out of the riot on the grounds that the crowd was assembled on the street and not on railroad property. He sent for Sheriff Scott Kline, of Washington county.

To Sheriff Kline, Thomas Carroll, who is directing the strike for the Federated Shop Crafts, proposed that if the baggage car was unlocked and the men in it told why they had been brought to Hagerstown, the strikers would then allow the train to proceed and the strike breakers to go to work or not, as they liked.

He said the men were locked in the car in violation of the regulations of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and that they did not know the purpose for which they

Club at Meeting Last Night Decided to Place All Available Funds in New Building

Plans for building a new clubhouse to take the place of its clubhouse recently destroyed by fire were discussed last night at a largely attended meeting of the Old Dominion Boat Club held in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce.

The club decided to place all of its available funds in the new clubhouse, and decided to have it erected at the King Street wharf property.

It also was announced that an architect will be here within the next few days for the purpose of going over the plans with the building committee. The new structure will not be a wooden one—this has been definitely determined upon.

It was announced that the plans and specifications, together with an approximate estimate of the cost of the construction of a modern clubhouse, will be ready for submission at the annual meeting of the club, which is scheduled to take place the night of April 5 in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce.

The new clubhouse will be two stories. This club has just had its fire insurance adjusted and expects to have the funds in hand within the next few days.

IN CONGRESS YESTERDAY

SENATE

Met at noon and recesed at 5 p. m., until 12 o'clock today.

Ratified the five power naval disarmament treaty by a vote of 74 to 1, the single negative being cast by Seantor France (Republican), Maryland.

Ratified the poison gas and submarine treaty by a vote of 71 to 0.

The Chinese policy treaty was then made the unfinished business, with the treaty relating to Chinese tariffs the next and last to be considered.

Senator Borah, in supporting the naval disarmament pact, said he regarded it "as the beginning, and only the beginning, of the work of disarmament."

Referring to the authorship of the movement which had come into the discussion, Senator Borah said the real author was public opinion, and without the sustained power of public opinion the treaty would accomplish little in the way of bringing the world toward disarmament.

The creation of an "American bat- of cotton" and the "operation of cotton exchanges" will be investigated by the Federal Trade Commission under a resolution by Senator Dial, of South Carolina, adopted by the Senate.

The creatino of an "American battle monument commission" to erect suitable memorials in France in commemoration of the services of the American expeditionary forces is provided for in a bill introduced by Senator Lodge.

As an amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill Senator Swanson, of Virginia, proposed an appropriation of $1,000,000 for the acquisition of forest lands at headwaters of navigable streams.

The agricultural appropriations committee voted to strike from the supply bill the annual item for the purchase of free seeds for members of Congress.

HOUSE

Met at noon and adjourned at 4:35 p. m., until noon today.

Passed without a roll call the army bill, carrying a total of approximately $288,000,000, and directing that by July 1 next the enlisted strength of the army shall be reduced to 115,000 men and the number of officers decreased to 11,000.

Passed the Senate joint resolution authorizing a 25 year extension for payment by Austria for the $25,000,000 worth of flour purchased through the grain corporation.

Opponents of too radical reduction in the navy started a movement to prevent the proposed limit of 65,000 enlisted personnel for next year's navy, and have centered forces on a proposal by Mr McArthur, of Oregon, for a maximum strength of 86,000.

THREE SPEAKERS AT LABOR MEET

Western Starr Airs Views on "The Power of Monopoly"

Mrs. Ellen D. Megow and H. L. Brunson Also Tell What They Think of Present Day Conditions

Western Starr spoke on "The Power of Monopoly," before a public meeting of labor under the auspices of the International Association of Machinists, Alexandria Lodge No. 1496, held last night in the Young People's Building. Monopoly he said is created by law.

The high cost of living he declared puzzled. There are he said only two ways to create wealth, one being by law and the other by monopoly, and he added there are two items subject to monopoly, one being the surface of the earth and the other credit. The monopoly of credit he asserted is the chief monopoly. The first step to destroy the root of monopoly he said is to have the government go into the banking business itself. All evil he declared flows from the perversion of the powers of the government and until the people grapple with its influence he said it would continue.

Mrs. Ellen D. Megow, of Chicago, took for his subject, "His Majesty, the American Citizen." The people she asserted had suffered long enough and ought to clean up and she urged getting together.

H. L. Brunson, of St. Louis, grand lodge representative of the Internal Association of Machinists, made a short address in which he declared in his opening remarks that he was dissatisfied with the present order of things.

TREATIES ARE RATIFIED BY THE SENATE

Limit Size of Navies and Curb Use of Subs and Gas

VOTE ALMOST SOLID

Senator France of Maryland Casts Only Dissenting Vote Against Ten-Year Naval Holiday.

Washington, March 30.—While Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland, stood isolated in his opposition, the Senate yesterday ratified the naval limitation of armament treaty by a vote of 74 to 1. With only brief debate the Senate then ratified, 71 to 0. the treaty limiting the use of submarines and prohibiting the use of poison gas in warfare.

The Maryland senator voted for the poison gas treaty after he had spoken and voted against the treaty for a 10-year naval holiday.

Having engineered two treaty votes in one day, Senator Lodge immediately put before the Senate the Nine-Power treaty relating to China. Ratification o fthis treaty, as wel las that fication of this treaty, as well as that pected by end of the week, and this will wipe clean the ratification slate and leave the Senate opportunity to go back to domestic questions. The Nine-Power treaty was read late today, but debate did not begin upon it.

Suporting the naval pact, Senator Borah, whose resolution was largely instrumental in bringing about the Washington Conference, told the Senate that the treaty represented a step toward disarmament. The Idaho senator said he welcomed the opportunity to vote for the treaty, but added:

"I have no doubt that this treaty represents all that could be obtained from the Washington Conference. But I should regard it as a disaster rather than a benefit if this treaty should be looked upon as all there is to do in the way of disarmament, even naval disarmament, in the next 10 years. It is important we utilize this occasion for considering what there is to do."

Senator Borah referred to the speech of Senator Underwood, holding that the treaty marks the beginning of a new era of civilization.

"It may well do so," added Senator Borah; "yet it accomplishes little compared with what remains to be done. We can not praise the treaty too much as a beginning. There has been much discussion about this question, and public opinion is the real cause of the Washington Conference."

Senator Borah directed attention to the fact that even with the treaty in operation navies can be greaer than ever before, because such instruments of modern warfare as the submarine and destroyer are left untouched. Japan, he suggested, has "enough navy left to dominate the Eastern Pacific."

While the treaty will bring about some reduction in the naval budgets of the various signatory nations, the Idaho senator said, the saving would be small compared with what might be accomplished, and would show "how much further we still have to go."

Senator Johnson told the Senate that he had been informed by naval experts that the portions of the treaty relating to the status quo of the fortifications of the islands of the Pacific would not hurt the United States. Since he was not a naval expert, Senator Johnson said, he would have to accept these assurances, although with misgivings.

There were no reservations offered to the naval treaty, and the final vote began at 3 o'clock. There was no particular stir when Senator France cast the only negative vote, and the Marylander voted in a quiet, even tone. He immediately thereafter began to go over the papers on his desk as Senator Lodge presented the poison-gas pact, upon which there developed little debate.

ACTOR'S STRIKE DELAYS SHOW

Chicago, March 29.—It is a well known fact that all great artists, particularly those who make frequent public appearances, are extremely temperamental. Apis Mellifica is no exception to the rule. The Italian bees belonging to the Society for Visual Education have proved themselves to be true artists.

In their second public appearance at the recent Chicago "All Outdoors" exhibit, they greatly disappointed their patrons and backers by unannounced changes in the advertised program. The substituted program gave sad evidences of the lack of sufficient rehearsal and cooperation on the part of the principals. The embarrassing absence of the Queen Bee completed teh demoralization of the troupe, and when their impresario, Miss Lucile V. Berg, attempted to smooth over matters and continue the performance, she was threatened with personal violence and finally had to call in reserves.

Even the workers, stage hands and scene shifters proved equally unreliable. It is believed that Mr. Hiveus Drone, with his extreme Bolshevistic tendencies, was in part responsible for this labor trouble.

One of the immediate causes of this agitation was the lack of proper notification regarding flashlight pictures taken by the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, in the vicinity of the "How Doth the Busy Bee" headquarters. The bees, surrounded by floral tributes, had been progressing very satisfactorily with their honey making scene, when the unheralded flashes unhinged their nerves, and the absence of the queen prima donna, whom unkind rumor reports as being at the time in a state of hibernal torpor, left them without the guidance of anyone whom they would recognize as having authority. Fortunately for the reputation of the society, which was most vitally concerned in the success of the performance, the services of a reserve company of acters, who knew nothing about the flashlight episode, were available the following day and they continued the one making scene with great success. And so, although Mis Berg carries physical evidence of having been stung, there cannot be any figurative application of the term to the Society for Visual Education.

In addition to this display of bees, the Society also entertained the throngs that came to the exhibit with motion pictures on toads, the life cycle of the mosquito, Monarch butterfly and wasp, bee culture and other nature study subjects which were made for classroom use in schools. The presentation of these films was accompanied by talks by Ruth E. Danforth, which covered the essential points from the teacher's viewpoint.

Other exhibits were provided by the Outdoor Art League, Prairie Club, Camp Fire Girls, Frank V. Dudley, teh artist, the N. W. Harris Loan exhibit, Oak Park River Forest High School, Y. W. C. A., Society of Chicago Artists, Wild Flower Preservation Society, and several Chicago public schools, all under the supervision of Mrs. Theron Colton, chairman of the conservation committee of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

A. J. PAYNE IS GIVEN ONE YEAR

Federal Game Warden in Fairfax Convicted of Malicious Shooting

Last Thanksgiving Shot William Simms Fifteen Years Old—Payne Released on Bond

After being out more than an hour a jury in the Fairfax County Court late yesterday afternoon found A. J. Payne, Federal game warden, who has been stationed on the Camp Humphreys reservation, guilty of maliciously shooting William Simms, 15 years old, and sentenced Payne to serve one year in the penitentiary.

Payne renewed his bond and was released pending the filing of a bill of exceptions, 60 days being allowed for this. Judge S. G. Brent presided. Payne was represented by Attorneys Frank Stuart of this city and W. M. Ellison, of Fairfax. Acting Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson Farr conducted the prosecution.

The shooting took place last Thanksgiving. At the time the Simms boy was crossing the place of Miss Nellie Nevitt with two companions, the lads being on a hunting expedition. Payne called upon the boys to halt and then fired, one of the bullets from his revolver striking Simms in the left shoulder

It is understood that friends of Payne will recommend to the governor that his sentence be suspended owing to his advanced age.

TRAINMEN END DIRECT DEALING WITH RAILWAYS

Firemen and Engineers Appeal Their Case to Labor Board

BIG FOUR RUPTURE

Trainmen Continue Their Negotiations —One Hundred and Ten Railroads Involved in Controversy

Chicago, March 30.—Complete failure of the regional negotiations between railroad managements and the engineers and firemen's brotherhoods, in an effort to settle disputes over wages and working conditions, was revealed yesterday when the Railroad Labor board set a hearing for disputes involving engineers and firemen's rules on all railroads, to follow the present wage hearing, which is expected to end by April 15.

The announcement was said by railroad men to lend confirmation to reports of the split between engineers and firemen and the conductors and trainmen's brotherhoods. Conferences between the two latter organizations and the railroads are still in progress, with prospects, they added, of an agreement.

Attempts to reach a new wage agreement and to settle controversies over working rules were made in three regional conferences, which began the middle of last month. With the announced desire to avoid carrying their troubles to the Labor Board, the Big Four brotherhoods, which for years have acted with a solid front, requested Secretary Hoover to call the railroad and brotherhood heads together to attempt a settlement.

Plans for regional conference with the Eastern roads in Washington and the Western roads in Chicago resulted.

Meanwhile the Labor Board held in abeyance the train service men's rules disputes for settlement The four brotherhoods were likewise excluded from the present wage hearing because of the board's promise at the time of the threatened strike last fall to settle all rule controversies before acting on further wage cuts proposed by the carriers.

During the negotiations Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and W. S. Carter, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, went into conference alone with a committee of Eastern railroad officials. L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, and W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, were left to hold separate conferences with the roads.

Successive meetings failed of agreement, the roads asking abolition of time and one-half pay after eight hours' work in yard and freight service, and the engineers and firemen's leaders demanding its retention. The time and one-half proposition was put into effect by order of the Federal Railroad Administration during the war and was continued by the Labor Board until the controversy should be heard and a decision rendered.

It was reported that the roads offered tocompromise on an agreement not to seek further wage reductions for the engineers and firemen at present if they would agree to give up the overtime rule. The brotherhoods declined.

The regional conferences of the engineers and firemen having failed, however, the board received notices, signed jointly by the railroad and union committee heads, that it was impossible to reach an agreement and asking that the rules disputes again be taken up. The notice for the Eastern roads was signed by P. E. Crowley, for the roads; Grand Chief Stone, for the engineers, and President Carter, for the firemen.

Local Boy Retires From The Ring

Local ring fans will regret to learn that "Johnny Bergen," who has a number of times amused Alexandrians with his pugilistic exhibitions, is forced to retire from the ring, due to injuries received in the recent war. Bergen who has copped Fleet honors in our Navy, while quite a young man landed in Philadelphia while he was at his best and fought the most brilliant fights of his career before the most exclusive clubs of Philadelphia and New York. At the call Johnnie again enlisted when the country needed men and served through the entire war on the high seas. During his last enlistment he was a favorite of the Atlantic fleet and won ring laurels for it that it holds to this day. John is at present under vocational training and rulings by the Veterans' Bureau forbid him engaging in the fighting game, therefore his retirement from the ring. Bergen like all sports, has fought for charitable purposes and he will be missed at such affairs in the future.

Results Twice as Quickly

The reason IRONIZED YEAST brings such remarkable results is because it embodies a new scientific process which enables yeast to bring its great benefits often in just half the usual time.

Yeast alone is good, but tests show that it needs some other agent in order to quickly convert its wonderful health-building elements into firm tissue, rosy cheeks and sparkling vitality.

The New Process

Everyone knows that iron is of great value in converting our food into living cells and tissue. So working on this problem, our scientists finally discovered the wonderful process of ironization—the process through which the combination of yeast and iron becomes 100 per cent efficient.

Do not think, however, that any combination of yeast and iron will do. Yeast brings its best and quickest results only when it is treated through the scientific process of ironization. And this process is embodied only in IRONIZED YEAST, the one scientifically correct yeast treatment.

Judge Tebbs Dies

Jurist Succumbs in His Office at Leesburg Last Night

Judge Richard H. Tebbs, veteran Virginia jurist, and lifelong resident of Leesburg, Va., died suddenly last night while seated at a desk in his office at Leesburg. He had just finished coaching high school students in Latin and mathematics when he was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage, dying before medical attention could be summoned. He was 67 years old.

Judge Tebbs was a graduate of the University of Virginia and when a young man was elected judge of the Loudoun County Court, serving continuously in that court for 16 years, until its abolishment in 1903. He was regarded as one of the ablest lawyers and judges in Virginia. Following his retirement from the bench, he was appointed examiner of records for the judicial circuit, including Fauquier and Rappahannock counties.

Judge Tebbs is survived by four sons, three of whom served and were wounded overseas. They are Major Richard H. Tebbs, of the Marine Corps, stationed in Washington; Captain John A. Tebbs, also of the Marines, now in Haiti; Charles Binns Tebbs, local attorney, and William L. Tebbs, civil engineer, of Pittsburg, Pa.

Judge Tebbs was a Royal Arch Mason, a member of Acca Temple, Mystic Shrine, of Richmond, Va., and Alexandria Commandary, Knights Templar. He was regarded an expert in the history, principles and ritual of Masonry. He was a member of the University Club of this city.

His wife, who was a Miss Lynch, daughter of one of the last of the old-time Virginia editors, died eleven years ago. Funeral services with full Masonic honors will be held tomorrow. Interment will be made in Union Cemetery, Leesburg.

OUR NATIONAL CHAIRMAN

We print elsewhere in today's paper a brief sketch of the Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Honorable Cordell Hull. Judge Hull is well-known throughout the country as the author of some of the most important legislation enacted by Congress in recent years; notably, the Income Tax Law, declared constitutional and upheld generally by the United States Supreme Court; the Federal Inheritance Tax Law; legislation stabilizing the value of Liberty Bonds; and much of the reconstructive legislation following the World-War. He has left an indelible impress on the Federal Statutes of the country, and the nation is deeply indebted to him for his contributions thereto, and his unquestioned influence in shaping the trend of legislation along safe but progressive lines.

No other Democrat in the country, perhaps, could have been selected to head the National Committee, who at once commanded the confidence of the industrial, financial, and business world to such a degree as Judge Hull. His fourteen years in Congress stand out conspicuously as an unassailable record of high character, commanding intellect, and unselfish devotion to duty. From 1912 to 1921, his intimate association with all classes and conditions of business, brought about by his framing and handling many of the most important measures before the country, effectuated a nation-wide esteem and confidence in his surpassing ability and integrity of purpose.

This esteem and this confidence, Judge Hull has brought with him to the Democratic National Committee. Nor is it limited to the Democratic Party. During his memorable career in Congress he possessed the unbounded respect and confidence of Republicans as well as of those of his own party. "Whenever he spoke"—said a Republican congressman prominent in the councils of that faction in the House—"we Republicans all sat up and listened and took heed, for he always held the view that taxation, the tariff and economic legislation generally, were matters that never should be dealt with in a partisan spirit, but should be considered upon a scientific basis for the general welfare of the government and the people alike."

The tribute paid him by the Democratic leaders of the present House, in resolutions passed on the day following his election as Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, recited his patriotism, statesmanship, intimate knowledge of political history, and essential elements of leadership. They closed by saying: "Knowing his personal character, unselfish devotion to his country, and his ability as a leader disclosed during his long service in this House, with confidence in the success of his leadership, we pledge to him, as to our fellow-democrats throughout the nation, our united support."

The Democratic Party is indeed to be congratulated that Cordell Hull consented to make the personal and financial sacrifice involved in his assuming the national leadership. But they feel, to a man, that it means an undivided support and allegiance on the part of the Democracy of the nation, that shall lead to certain victory in 1924.

Foreign Trade Convention

Philadelphia, March 28.—In common with the executives of all the States in the Union, Governor E. Lee Trinkle of Virginia is quick to sense the importance of the Ninth National Foreign Trade Convention in this city, May 10, 11 and 12, to the industrial and agricultural prosperity of America. Responding to the invitation of the local committee of arrangements, Governor Trinkle writes:

"It is with much pleasure I learn that the Ninth National Foreign Trade Convention will be held in Philadelphia and will be devoted to a discussion of the ways and means of promoting American foreign trade.

"There is no more vital question before the American people today than foreign trade. Without a broader market for our goods, production must decline with all the accompanying evils of industrial idleness, low wages, social unrest, and an impaired standard of living. American development is to a large extent dependent o nan enlarged demand for American products, which means that the United States must actively compete in the world's markets for a larger share of the world trade.

"With a sufficient volume of business, it will be possible to maintain American standards and realize our national economic aspirations. We must, therefore, of necessity, look to the international markets for a continuation of our national prosperity.

"The Ninth National Foreign Trade Convention can render a most important service to the nation, and I heartily indorse its purposes."

While only four delegates from Virginia were at the Eighth National Foreign Trade Convention at leveland in 1921, a much larger attendance is expected at the Philadelphia gathering because of the realization of its direct effect on Virginia's prosperity, agricultural as well as shipping and commercial. Not only national but world wide interest is being taken in the convention, and already delegates are being registered from such far-off places as Johannesburg, South Africa, Manila, Valparaiso, Rio de Janeiro, Barcelona and Naples.

The St. Louis Chamber of Commerce has appointed 33 of the leading manufacturers and business men of that city as delegates. Similar action has been taken by the Los Angeles Chamber and other organizations all along the Pacific coast, in addition to the registration of many individual delegates. Any manufacturer, business man, or any person interested in foreign trade may register.

"Greater prosperity through greater foreign trade" is the convention slogan, while the basic theme will be, "Financing and Expanding Foreign Trade." It will be the greatest gathering of the business men of the United States ever held, and every phase and angle of foreign trade will be discussed by experts, hard-headed, practical men, with a thorough working knowledge of their subjects. Faddists and theorists, and politicians are barred.

Every delegate will have the benefit of the Trade Adviser Service, by which his individual foreign trade problems will be solved, and there will be many other valuable features free to those attending. Philadelphia's hotels are all within easy walking distance of the Academy of Music, where the sessions will be held. Reservations should, however, be made early, as between 4,000 and 5,000 delegates are expected.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Tomorrow, Friday, March 31st, The Gazette will publish its

WARNING OF A SOFT MONEY CAMPAIGN THAT WOULD JEOPARDIZE THE THRIFT MOVEMENT

More than pasing attention should be given to the following quotations from a series of articles from Washington which have been written by H. Parker Willis who is an authority on economics and banking, is associated in the work of the Federal Reserve Board and is editor of the New York Journal of Commerce: The free crdit and soft money propaganda is not only a political issue of the early future, but affords a present problem of first class importance.

Mr. Willis notes a growing lack of interest in any district program of any legislation not only because of the approaching election but because the members of Congress now recognize the appearance of some dangerous new issues. Of these probably the most outstanding is rural credit and banking in general. The Democratic party is gradually falling under the control of the "soft" or unsound money fanatics once more. According to some of those in the innermost councils of the organization the situation has advanced to the point at which the adoption of some unsound money and banking programme has practically become an article of faith with the so-called "left wing" of the organization.

Mr. Bryan is advocating various radical notions in money and banking and attacking the Federal Reserve system, According to these same Democrats already referred to it is expected that he will endeavor to control party conventions in favor of new "soft money" plans. Extreme ideas on the money and banking question have spread over the country and seem likely to play an important part in the election.

This in a certain way would help the Republicans ordinarly were it not that they themselves are so greatly divided on this question. They have accepted a share in the soft money propaganda in many instances, and include among their number some of the most severe critics of the Federal Reserve system. They are thus in no position to attack the Democrats on the ground of their "unsoundness." The money question is likely for this year at least to be a local issue. figuring largely in Southern and Western districts and leading to the election of new members on "greenback" or "people's banking" platforms.

The effect of these conditions on pending legislation is of immediate importance. Already Congress has taken steps in connection with farm credit, which are certainly to be regretted, including the "dirt farmer" bill, passed by the upper chamber and the War Finance Corporation legislation which on the whole has not been productive of much benefit certainly none in proportion to the cost of the operations under it.

Mr. Willis points to the latest bonus proposal with its disregard of the danger of reinflation as an example of the character of the suggestions which are constantly coming forward for the use of the banking system in a way to subsidize or help some element in the community which it is desired to placate."

EMERGENCY TREATMENT OF EYES, EARS AND NOSE

Styles generally accompany eyestrain or poor general health. The cause should be found and treated, and especial attention should be given to correcting eyestrain, indigestion and constipation. Hot application may be used but if pus gathers the eye should be treated by physician.

Foreign bodies in the eye may sometimes be removed by blowing the nose violently, by yawning several times, or by drawing the upper lip down over the lower. The eye should not be rubbed. If is proves impossible to dislodge the object by these methods the patient's eyelid should be turned back in the following manner: Let the patient sit with his head back in a low chair placed in a good light and stand behind him holding his head between your side and upper arm. In this position the patient's head is held firmly while both the operator's hands are free. Next draw down the lower lid, and remove the object, if visible. on the corner of a clean handkerchief. To turn back the upper lid, grasp the eyelashes firmly, draw the lid down, out and then up over a match or a pencil placed across the middle of the lid and held in your other hand. Then wipe the object carefully away if it is visible.

Irritation that persists after the foreign body has been removed may be relieved by a cold compress continued for an hour or more, or by a drop or two of castor oil placed under the lid. If attempts to remove a foreign body are unsuccessful, if the injury is severe or if irritation continues after several hours, apply a cold compress, bandage it firmly so that the eyeball is kept at rest and seek the aid of a physician.

Permanent deafness may result from neglecting disorders of ears. Ear-ache, discharge from the ear, swelling in or about it, pain or tenderness behind it, all require medical attention and no time should be lost in securing it. To relieve pain the patient may lie with his ear on an ice-bag, but nothing whatever should be put into the ear before the doctor comes, except when an insect has entered the ear and causes acute distres by the noise of its beating wings. If such an accident has occured the patient should lie on the affected side, and warm sweet oil should be dropped very gently into the affected ear by means of a medicine dropper. The insect generally drowns in the oil and floats to the opening of the ear canal. After it has been removed, the patient should lie on the affected side so that the oil may drain out of the ear.

No attempts should be made to remove foreign bodies from the ear or nose unless they can be easily reached with the fingers. Hair pins crochet hooks and similar instruments should never be used for this purpose. It is better for a doctor to remove foreign objects because unskilled attempts are likely to move them further in.

Nose bleed usually stops of itself, but if it is obstinate the patient should sit erect with the head back and cold compresses should be placed on the nose and the back of the neck. Pressure should be made on the upper lip by means of the fingers, or by a firm roll of paper or cotton placed under the upper lip. Salt or vinegar in water, a teaspoonful or either one to a cup of water, may be snuffed up the nose. The treatment should be continued for ten or fifteen minutes or until the bleeding stops. If the bleeding persists after this, a doctor is needed.

MOTHER! CLEAN CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of Mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

"JANE EYRE"

From the great novel by
CHARLOTTE BRONTE
With
MABEL BALLIN and NORMAN TREVOR

What You Will See

A young girl whose heart is hungry for love, repulsed by an unloving aunt.

Beautiful, rolling English countryside and picturesque estates.

A tally-ho journey with all the old time romance that tradition has so strongly painted.

The frequent attempts of a demented wife to set fire to Rochester Hall.

How Jane Eyre is saved from marrying a man who already has a wife.

A cynic whose heart is softened and made glad.

How a man loses his sight and regains it; loses the girl that he loves and finds her again.

What happens when Jane Eyre is about to marry the missionary who has given her a home.

Remember! This Picture Will be Shown Only One Day Saturday. Don't Miss It

ARMY CUT MAY BE DISASTROUS

General Pershing Tells Newspaper Men Reduc- Would be Mistake

Cites Lack of Preparedness Before Great War—General Harbord Says House Bill Checks Reserves

Washington, March 30.—Stating the army's case in opposing to further reduction in its enlisted and commissioned strength before Washington newspaper men last night, General Pershing and Major-General Harbord jointly declared their belief that the bill passed yesterday by the House limiting the army to 115,000 men and 11,000 officers would work serious injury to the nation's military policy and undermine the best system for preparedness the nation ever had.

"Further reductions would be disastrous," General Pershing declared adding that such reductions would "introduce an unwarranted element of danger in our plan of national defense."

General Harbord asserted that the country "traveled in a vicious circle" of unpreparedness and postwar economy. Both officers asserted that 150,000 men and 12,000 officers were absolutely essential to the nation's needs at this time.

"A careful consideration of the work in hand, if the initial well-laid scheme is not to be seriously curtailed and many essential activities abandoned," General Pershing said, "leads inevitably to the conclusion that any further reduction would be disastrous.'

Regarding the proposal to reduce the overseas garrison, he said that the "reduction cannot be made without violating the soundest principles of security."

"The size of the peace garrison recommended for Hawaii and the Panama Canal Zone," General Pershing added, "is the minimum with which their missions can be performed. Any material decrease in their size will make them ineffective and possibly invite attack. The importance of these possessions in the plan of national defense; the expense of maintaining them; the fact that they must be defended by the regular army, and the difficulty of supplying adequate reinforcements in an emergency, all demand that the defending force be reasonably effective and that the personnel be definitely allocated from whatever strength Congress authorizes for the regular army."

The General emphasized the importance of adequately protecting the Hawaiian and the Philippine islands, adding that "it must be remembered that the controlling factor in determining the strength of our overseas garrison is not the imminence of war, but the military value of these outposts in the general scheme of defense of the continental United States in the event of war."

CONVULSIONS

In every case of convulsions, either in children or in adults, a doctor is needed at the earliest possible moment. Convulsions in adults are very serious; in babies and small children, although serious, they are less alarming, since then may follow comparatively slight disturbances, particularly disturbances of digestion.

Treatment for babies and children with convulsions consists first in keeping the child as quiet as possible, and next in measures to draw blood from the brain toward the surface of the body. The child should first be undressed, moving him as little as possible, and put to bed between warm blankets. Cold should be applied to his head by means of a compress or an ice cap, and a hot water bag should be placed near his feet. An enema should then be given.

A warm tub bath is sometimes given to apply heat, if the convulsion has not subsided by the time the child is undressed. If the bath is given the temperature of water should not be above 106 degrees and should be tested with a thermometer. If no thermometer is available, the water should be tested with the elbow rather than with the hand, as the hand can stand greater heat than other part of the body. If the bath feels uncomfortably warm to the elbow, cold water should be added. There is great danger of scalding a child during the excitement inevitably caused by a convulsion.

Although haste is needed when the child has convulsions, yet quiet is essential, since the slightest movement has a tendency to increase the convulsions or start them again. As soon as the convulsions are over the child should be removed from the bath and put to bed between warm blankets. Even after the symptoms have completely subsided, the greatest care should be taken to keep the child quiet. He should be handled and disturbed as little as possible. The bath should be repeated if convulsions begin again. The doctor, when he comes, will probably order a dose of castor oil; therefore if it is impossible to obtain a doctor at once, the dose should be given.

MOVE MADE TO KEEP BIG NAVY

Will Ask For 96,000 or at Least 86,000 Minimum

McArthur Leads House Fight to Keep Strength up to Reasonable Mark

Washington, March 30.—Big-navy men started a move in the House yesterday to prevent the proposed reduction in the navy's enlisted personnel for next year to 65,000.

Announcement was made by Representative McArthur, of Oregon, Republican member of the Naval Affairs Committee, that when the bill comes up from the Appropriations Committee he would offer an amendment to place the minimum strength at 86,000. At the same time it was stated that Representative Rogers, of Massachusetts, ranking Republican on the Foreign Affairs Committee, would propose 96,000 as the minimum.

The bill making provision for only 65,000 men will be reported to the House next week by Chairman Kelley, of the subcommittee on appropriations, now drafting it. In taking final action the House will vote first on the Rogers amendment. In event of its defeat, which is generally conceded by House leaders, the test will come on the McArthur amendment. Should that fail, the committee recommendation will stand up for a vote.

"The House Committee on Naval Affairs," said Mr. McArthur, "has reported legislation authorizing an enlisted strength of 80,000 men and 6,000 apprentice seamen, and although I am not speaking officially for the committee, I feel that a large majority of its members are opposed to reducing our enlisted personnel to 65,000 when it is well understood that Japan will have 68,000 and Great Britain 104,000 during the coming fiscal year.

The recent Armament Limitation Conference agreed to a 5-5-3 basis of naval armament, but if the proponents of the forthcoming bill have their way the personnel ratio will be approximately 5-3-3. I do not believe the American people want their navy to drop to a third place in personnel, or in any other respect. What they want is a navy that will, in so far as possible, conform to the spirit of the recent conference. The present enlisted strength of our navy is approximately 94,000 men. It can not stand much more of a reduction without seriously affecting its morale and efficiency."

COMMUNICATIONS

Virginia Highlands, Va.
R. D. No. 2, March 24, 1922.

Dear Sir:

On March 20 there appears in your paper a communication, signed by your illustrious fellow-citizen, Gardner L. Boothe.

I am surprised to find Mr. Boothe so woefully ignorant of the facts in this case. One statement is, that "Practically every one, both in Arlington County and in Alexandria City, wish the brick yards in the county to continue their operation."

As a matter of fact, the two subdivisions—Virginia Highlands and Aurora Hills—comprise over 100 families of real State and county citizens, many of them native Virginians, who, aside from all personal interests, have a strong aversion to standing idly by while a few nonresidents cut the very heart out of this grand old State.

It may enlighten Mr. Boothe to know that in his sweeping statement he completely ignores the Clarendon Citizens' Association, the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, and the Hume Citizens' Association, all of whom have gone on record as being bitterly opposed to this unsightly, unhealthy work of continuing.

Also I wish to call your patriotic citizens' attention to the fact that long practice does not make an evil right—though it would appear that "might" does. Because the people of this county have been slow to arouse and take any definite steps in putting a stop to this disgraceful work, is no argument in favor of its continuance. It is but a grosser shame to any who, knowing the situation and having any influence, have, like Esau, sold their birthright for a mess of pottage—or otherwise.

I am, forsooth, filled with pity when I picture Mr. Boothe's great heart bleeding over these poor workmen, whom he claims would shortly be out of work had he not gallantly gone to their rescue and persuaded the governor to veto the bill to stop these excavations.

We differ with Mr. Boothe regarding our legislators not passing this bill had they heard both sides. Also, we KNOW the Governor would never have vetoed this bill had he heard both sides.

The Washington Brick & Terra Cotta Co., comes most closely under my observation. This concern (two of the members of which are nonresidents of the State), is at present excavating, to the extent of twenty feet or more, a piece of property acquired considerably less than a decade ago, long after this was a bona fida subdivision.

Yours respectfully,
A. D. Davis.

SOLDIER DEAD BROUGHT BACK

Transport Cambrai Brings Last of the Bodies Back Home

Firing of Salutes and Dipping of Flags Mark Passage Through the Narrows to New York

New York, March 30—The last battalion of soldier dead to be brought home from the fields of France—1,060 in all— was saluted by the guns of Forts Hamilton and Wadsworth when the army transport Cambrai passed through the Narrows yesterday afternoon with her cargo. Flags of escorting craft flew at half-mast and were dipped the entire length of their staffs in salute to the fallen warriors.

Forty-five thousand of those who made the supreme sacrific overseas in the service of the United States now have been brought back to their homeland, and only about a hundred more bodies await shipment from England and France. All of the others who fell in battle or died behind the lines will continue to rest in foreign soil, that being the wish of their relatives.

Commemoration ceremonies for those who died in uniform will be conducted Sunday in Brooklyn, where the Cambrai docked. General Pershing is to lead a parade organized by war veterans, the route of march being from Fort Hamilton Parkway to the Cambrai's pier.

In the procession will be high naval and military officers, groups of Senators and Congressmen, Mayor Hylan and leaders in civil life.

Thirty-four officers and 941 men released from service in the Rhineland were passengers aboard the Cambrai. Some were attached to Companies A and B of the First Engineers; the rest were casuals. Fifty-seven wives of enlisted men—French, Belgian, Swiss and German girls—came with their husbands. The German wives brought 14 babies along.

VIRGINIA TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION

Richmond, Va. March—From Chesterfield County comes an interesting account of work done by the Home Economic Club of the Chester High School. Miss Helen Ward, the teacher and her class, learning through the Public Health Nurse of a young woman who had tuberculosis and was without funds for the necessary treatment, inaugurated a series of cafeteria lunches at the school. In this way they raised enough money to send the patient to Blue Ridge Sanatorium for a month and to buy slippers for her. At Christmas a nice box containing plum puding and other delicacies was packed and sent to the sanatorium. The Club members take turns in writing to their protege each week.

The Nursing Committee of Goochland County has purchased a reclining chair and some warm blankets for the use of tuberculosis patients taking the treatment at home and unable to procure the necessary equipment. A merchant in the county gave a cushion for the chair. This outfit is in the care of the Public Health Nurse, who lends it where it is needed and sees that it is sterilized before passing it on to the next case.

The Tuberculosis Committee of Kings Daughters in Orange County have already sent three tuberculosis patients to the sanatorium this year with the money realized through the sale of Christmas Seals, and intend to supplement this fund by securing private subscriptions to carry forward the splendid health work which they have been doing for the past two years.

The expression "A cat has nine lives" owes its origin to the fact that the padded foot and toes break the cat's fall, and it is said always to light on its feet.

GERMAN MARKS REACH A NEW LOW LEVEL

Reparations Note And U. S. Demands For Payment Affect Exchange

New York, March 30.—Germany's more serious financial and general economic position among the nations of the world found concrete expression here yesterday when the mark fell to the new low record of 29½-100ths of 1 cent. The extent of this collapse, probably unprecedented in modern history, may be gauged from the fact that the normal or pre-war value of the mark here was 23 8-10 cents.

Selling of German exchange at this center has been unusually large recently at steady reactions, but offerings assumed most impressiv proportions in the last few days.

The increased liquidation, apparently accomfpanied by speculative offerings, was ascribed by informed interests as directly traceable to the demand of the United States Government for payment of the expenses of its army of occupation on the Rhine. For this a claim of $241,000,000 already has been presented to the Reparations Commission.

Yet another factor in the demoralization is the severity of the terms imposed on the Berlin Government as a prerequisite to the granting of a partial moratorium. These involve the flotation of a foreign loan or levy on home capital and a halt in all capital exports.

Despite the panicky financial conditions prevailing in Germany, some of the banks of that country seem to have prospered amazingly. A cable from Berlin today gave a summary of the Berliner Handels Gessellsbhaft, a leading institution, which reported net profits of 62.000.000 marks for 1921, against 37,000,000 in 1920.

Smugglers Hide Liquor in Ocean

A thousand prohibition agents concentrated on the Florida coast are confronted by the same situation that confronted the old English and Spanish governments generations ago, when the free booters concentrated along the coasts of Scotland and South Spain and refused to obey customs laws.

The vast horde of smugglers now engaged in slipping liquor from Cuba and the Bahamas into isolated inlets along the southern coast line is made up largely of simple fishermen, according to the word of investigators which has been transmitted to officials here.

These fishermen look on the prohibition law in the same manner in which the fisher folk of Valencia and the Dogger Banks of Scotland looked on the laws which prohibited them from getting good tobacco and certain clothings. They have organized a little industry bringing liquor fro mnearby foreign possessions. They refuse to see their industry as a violation of the law.

These men know the Florida coast line as no revenue agent know it. They know every nook and crevice in the coastline. They go out apparently to fish and when night falls, they make their way to the liquor port.

Most of them go to Cuba. The situation there makes smuggling a pleasure—not a risk. Government officials there realize big revenue from huge liquor exportations. They are not likely to curb the traffic. Then again, cabinet officers here can find no way of appealing to Cuban authorities on a common ground to help stop the traffic. The Cuban Government has no prohibition law and there is no reason why she should be asked by the American State Department to enforce an American law. The British Government—ruling the Bahamas—is in a similar position. Because of these conditions, the State Department has refrained from asking cooperation of these governments in stifling the trade.

On the return trip, of course, the fishermen find things a bit harder—but not much. If a patrol boat—there are half a dozen of them to patrol the 1,000 miles of Florida coast line—should by some chance run across the smuggler, he is not likely to be caught.

THOUSANDS OF CHILDREN THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY PAY TRIBUTE TO WILSON

Colored Namessake of Former President First of that Name to Join National Wilson Club

New York, March—Woodrow Wilson, a seven year old colored boy living in Wrightsville, Va., won the honor of being the first person bearing the name of the former President to join the National Wilson Club to compromise all persons named Wilson who contribute to the Woodrow Wilson Foundation. A one-dollar contribution for the little negro came to the office of the Foundation in this city today through Miss Dorothy Steele, in whose family the boy's grandmother was formerly employed.

The boy, who was one of the first to answer the summons of an appeal sent out under the title. "Is Your Name Wilson?" was named Woodrow Wilson during Mr. Wilson's first administration in spite of the protestations of the friends of his mother, who stated that Mr. Wilson was a Democrat.

Many other Wilsons in all parts of the countr have contributed to the Foundation in the week and become founders of the endowment of $1,000,000 or more that is to provide awards for distinguished public service. Many today's contributions came from children, a few of the states making a special effort to enlist the cooperation of the younger generation in behalf of the movement.

"I have always been an admirer of our great ex-President. I am but 14 years old, and the rest of the family are against Wilson, but I do not hold their views."

"The Republican Senators did not think it worth while to honor our Democratic President who worked for the whole world's democracy. Now they are trying to gather the crumbs they have thrown away to form at least a half loaf of bread. It is just now they realize that even a half is better than none."

In St. Louis a corps of young people have organized bands to take up contributions from those who care to make them. Recently they have been taking subscriptions in the theatres at each performance, the managers giving their cooperation by flashing views of Mr. Wilson on the screen with an explanation of the purpose of the Woodrow Wilson Awards.

It was announced here today that Mr. W. D. Melton, of Columbia, S. C., prominent in Red ross and war work, has been appointed chairman of the women's committee for that state.

Among the New Yorkers who became founders yesterday were C. H. Campe and William Hammatt Davis, each of whom gave $100. Subscriptions are being received in this city at 17 East 42nd street, Room 504; and 150 Nassau street.

had been hired, nor the city to which they had been taken.

Sheriff Kline called Judge Wagaman into consultation, and while the conference went on the train still was unable to move at a late hour.

Efforts to have the baggagemaster, T. N. Stem, couple the train met with a flat refusal on the ground that as a member of the trainmen's brotherhood he was not supposed to couple cars and that in view of the strike he would not create additional complications.

THIN, FLAT HAIR
GROWS LONG, THICK
AND ABUNDANT

"Danderine" costs only 35 cents a bottle. One application ends all dandruff, stops itching and falling hair, and in a few moments, you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will appear a mass, so soft, lustrous, and easy to do up. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. "Danderine" is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. This delightful, stimulating tonic helps thin, lifeless, faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and luxuriant.

CRAMPS, PAINS AND BACKACHE

St. Louis Woman Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Louis, Mo.—"I was bothered with cramps and pains every month and had backache and had to go to bed as I could not work. My mother and my whole family always took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for such troubles and they induced me to try it and it has helped me very much. I don't have cramps any more, and I can do my housework all through the month. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends for female troubles."—Mrs. DELLA SCHOLZ, 1412 Salisbury Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Just think for a moment. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been in use for nearly fifty years. It is prepared from medicinal plants, by the utmost pharmaceutical skill, and superior methods. The ingredients thus combined in the Compound correct the conditions which cause such annoying symptoms as had been troubling Mrs. Scholz. The Vegetable Compound exercises a restorative influence of the most desirable character, correcting the trouble in a gentle but efficient manner. This is noted, by the disappearance, one after another, of the disagreeable symptoms.
